

FACULTY WRITING GROUPS

National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity

→ NCFDD.ORG

The National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity (NCFDD) offers free 14-Day Writing Challenges. (ncfdd.org/14-day-challenge) These challenges include community accountability for daily writing, regular support from the NCFDD team, and access to NCFDD's custom WriteNow software.

For information about accessing UI's Institutional Membership in the NCFDD, see: PROVOST.UIOWA.EDU/NCFDD

Obermann Center for Advanced Studies

→ OBERMANN.UIOWA.EDU

The Obermann Center for Advanced Studies offers in person writing groups open to everyone in the UI academic community. In fall 2024, two groups of 15 will meet in our Writers' Attic at the Obermann Center for Advanced Studies at 111 Church St. Each group will meet once a week for 1.5 hours, beginning the week of September 9, 2024. Weekly writing sessions will include brief check-ins, goal setting, and sustained writing time. New members are welcome, but registration is required.

WRITING WORKSHOPS AND SEMINARS

Writing for the Public Good

→ RESEARCH.UIOWA.EDU/WRITING-PUBLIC-GOOD

Building on the UI's national reputation as the Writing University, the Writing for the Public Good initiative seeks to support and expand the strengths of faculty writers across all disciplines and departments to share UI research and scholarship with Iowa, the nation, and the world. Writing for the Public Good offers a variety of skills-based workshops to position faculty researchers and scholars to write essays, op-eds, and research-informed journalistic essays.

Write Winning Grant Proposals

→ RESEARCH.UIOWA.EDU/GRANT-WRITERS-SEMINARS-AND-WORKSHOPS
