Program: Operative Dentistry M.S.
Rating: Good

The Operative Dentistry MS program trains dental graduate students with advanced clinical experience and teaching and research training in restorative dentistry. There are only 4 similar programs in the US. The program is very selective and nearly all of the applicants offered a position accept. Three students matriculate each year and there is no financial support for the students. Approximately 95% of the graduates teach in dental schools and many graduates have gone on to leadership positions.
